in fact, made. Copies of information which are relied upon in part are attached as "Exhibit D". See pages 42-45, 54-55.

(2) That this "tape" was never, in fact, destroyed, but rather was in the possession of the F.B.I. at the time of the Grand Jury proceedings and, in fact, the F.B.I. agent reported to the Justice Department that as a result of the use of "body recorders and transmitters", indictments were returned by the Grand Jury. A copy of information which is relied upon, in part, is attached hereto as "Exhibit E". See page 130.

(3) No report was ever filed as to the "tape" being inaudible or destroyed in accordance with Justice Department Regulations, but, to the contrary, that the reports filed clearly indicate that the "tape" was audible and it was presented before the Grand Jury.

16. The use of false testimony of Agent [redacted] and the concealment and suppression by the Government of the information contained in paragraphs 14-15, supra, violated the defendant [redacted] right to a fair trial as guaranteed by Due Process Clauses of the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution and of his right to Compulsory Process for obtaining witnesses and evidence as guaranteed by the Sixth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

17. The substance of the December 2, 1974 tape recording is expected to be highly relevant and exculpatory to the defendant [redacted] started to read the letter addressed to myself and after reading the first several lines, I said to [redacted] "What's this?" He said "There's no problem, there's no conflict here. It's just required by the Court." At that point, relying upon [redacted] advice, I signed the letter to the Court and gave it to him.

b6 - 6

Notwithstanding the above discussion with [redacted] at no time prior to or during trial did [redacted] the Magistrate or the Trial Court ever state to me that there was a conflict of interest in this case nor did anyone comment on the dangers and/or risks involved in joint representation of [redacted] and me.

As a result of the conflict of interest on the part of [redacted] and [redacted] I have been deprived of the effective assistance of counsel and denied a fair trial. Without limiting my claims to matters stated here, I have been prejudiced in the following respects:

Up until the evening of the first day of trial, neither [redacted] nor I was expecting to testify. We were told by [redacted] and [redacted] that we will rebut the government's key witness [redacted] with the testimony of [redacted]

b6 - 2, 6, 7
b7D - 1

The substance of his anticipated testimony was exculpatory to me.

On the first day of trial, counsel received certain discovery material from the government including a prior statement of [redacted]. That evening I discussed with [redacted] and [redacted] the nature of some of the discovery material.

I was informed that the statement of [redacted] was inconsistent with his anticipated testimony. Further, they told me, in their opinion, even if he testified, his testimony would not help [redacted] and that the jury might draw an adverse inference against him and thereby also affect me. In response, I pressed my belief that it was essential to my defense to put [redacted] on the stand.

At that point, [redacted] advised me against doing so and stated to me: "The only way we can pull this out of the fire [redacted] is for you to testify and rebut testimony about [redacted] reputation. And [redacted] will have to testify, too." [redacted] agreed and told me he agreed with his partner.

I was surprised by these remarks and was reluctant to testify particularly because I was aware my prior criminal record could be introduced to impeach me.

b6 - 2, 6, 7
b7D - 1

Following further discussion, I finally acceded to the advice of [redacted] and [redacted] to testify, relying upon my expectation that they were acting in my best interests exclusively.

At the conclusion of the government's case, [redacted] informed me it was necessary that I testify first in order that I may rebut testimony of [redacted] reputation and character.

At the conclusion of my testimony, I was told that [redacted] would not be taking the stand to testify, as I expected. [redacted] told me he participated in the decision not to have [redacted] testify. He advised me that, in his opinion, on the present state of the evidence, [redacted] would be acquitted and he didn't want to take a chance to detract from his chances of acquittal. [redacted] in the presence of [redacted] then told me "Our strategy all along, [redacted] was to get [redacted] off. If he's found not guilty, you're not guilty." [redacted] agreeing, then added: "That's right. If [redacted] beats the armed robbery, (referring to the alleged extortionate act) there's no way they can convict you. You'll automatically get off."

et has been nothing short of abysmal." Conover, who plans to leave office soon, claimed that the federal examiners who gave Bank of Boston its annual inspection three years ago were simply ignorant of the cash-reporting law.

Some laundering operations can be remarkably brazen. When Edward Fields, a Chicago real estate agent entered the cocaine business and began accumulating piles of crumpled bills, he turned to a banking friend for help in handling the money. The accomplice, Kenneth Straub, executive vice president of National Republic Bank (assets: $37 million), devised a simple cleansing process. The bank began loaning the drug dealer large sums in the form of cashier's checks, which Fields would repay with cocaine cash. "He'd plunk down suitcases full of old, stinky, dirty bills that smelled like they'd been buried," says Roger Markley, a special assistant U.S. attorney who prosecuted the case. Fields, Straub and the bank were convicted in 1980 of concealing $2.2 million in cash transactions.

Many types of businesses can serve as cash Laundromats. Criminals often use casinos, where they buy a sizable amount of chips with tainted bills, gamble a few away and then redeem the remaining chips for clean cash. Beginning in May, though, casinos will be required to file the same cash-reporting forms that banks must file. Stockbrokerage firms have become popular with launderers, partly because they provide a full range of investment services. A courier for the so-called Pizza Connection, a Sicilian heroin ring operating in the U.S., placed $4.9 million into a Merrill Lynch account before the company became suspicious and closed the account in April 1982. The courier then deposited $12.4 million with E.F. Hutton before the pizza gang was shut down by federal agents.

The sudden congressional scrutiny of money laundering is giving U.S. financial institutions the jitters. Many banks have started following the federal rules to the letter and have imposed know-your-customer programs, which require employees to assess the character and reputation of new depositors, in the hope of spotting launderers. Even so, some officials want stiffer penalties for banks. One congressional proposal would allow fines of as much as five times the amount of money laundered. Says Assistant Treasury Secretary John Walker Jr., the agency's top enforcement official: "To force a bank to pay a penalty of more than $1 billion would wake up even the sleepiest of chief executive officers."

I'M SENDING YOU, ALL THAT CJIS FORWARDED TO ME. THE PERSON CONDUCTING CHECK ADVISED THAT THE NCIC RECORD DID NOT COME UP BEFORE BECAUSE OF HIS AGE, BUT THAT HE HAD AUTOMATED IT AND THAT NOW IT SHOULD COME UP. THE RECORD SHOWS AN OUTSTANDING WARRANT IN NEW YORK BY NEW YORK CITY PD FOR A GUN RELATED CHARGE. (I CAN'T IMAGINE WHY THAT WOULD STILL BE PENDING, BUT I'LL HAVE NEW YORK CHECK IT OUT FIRST THING IN THE MORNING).

PLEASE NOTE THAT THERE'S A BUSINESS CARD BEARING THE NAME [REDACTED] [REDACTED] IS THE PERSON WHO APPEARS AS A BROKER OF ALL OF [REDACTED] PROPERTY TRANSACTIONS IN ACAPULCO. (CAN YOU HAVE SOMEONE REVIEW CASE FILE [REDACTED], UNI HAS A REFERENCE TO A [REDACTED] DOB [REDACTED] TO THAT CASE FILE. SERIAL 117. HE'S SAID TO HAVE ILLINOIS DRIVER'S LICENSE [REDACTED].

I'M GOING TO REQUEST THAT [REDACTED] INTERVIEW HIM REGARDING THE PROPERTY TRANSACTIONS.
